INTRODUCTION

Welcome to our catalogue!
Ummm, why is there a teapot on the cover? Well, apart from the fact that it is nearly always a good time for a cup of tea, a teapot means many things to many people. For well-known Australian cartoonist, Michael Leunig, the teapot has become an enduring and much-loved character in his work:

'One Saturday morning, I was supposed to be doing a Vietnam cartoon, and I just couldn't. I thought Vietnam was such a hideous mess; anything a 23-year old kid said was irrelevant. I wanted to flee from the squalidness and I started drawing an optimistic fantasy about the human spirit ... a man walking along with a teapot on his head, followed by a duck. I'd never drawn such a thing before, the teapot just landed on his head. The editor said he didn't really understand it, but he liked it and ran it. I suppose I was saying that, as the world becomes more disconnected and fragmented, I feel this need to re-state what is constant and the teapot symbolised it. A warm, shared, comforting, familiar thing.'

For many of us, a teapot symbolises comfort, cosiness, friendly conversation around the kitchen table, a relaxed time with family, friends or neighbours.

Anna Marrone's teapot from our Positive Parenting Cards graces the front cover of this catalogue. Unlike an Aladdin's lamp, the treasures that flow from the spout of our teapot are not from exotic, unreachable places. They are from the regional city of Bendigo in Central Victoria, Australia—the home of over 60 cards sets brewed by Innovative Resources sometime during the last 25 years.

'We hope that our resources will help create conversations that can, like a teapot, bring comfort. But we also hope they generate insight, understanding, change and positive ways forward in professional and educational settings.'

In 2016/2017 Innovative Resources will have released ten new resources. These include Paperworks, Anxiety Solutions for Kids, Next Steps, Reminders for Best Practice (a set of five posters), The Bears Tactile Characters, The Bears Cube and brand new editions of Strength Cards for Kids, Reflexions, Optimism Boosters and the iconic book for strengths-based practice—The Strengths Approach. In addition, a number of our card sets and books are now available in digital format and many more will follow. (See page X for details, and check out the individual product pages on our website where we will post links to the digital versions as they become available.)

Like all of our resources, this suite of new and revised tools for children, youth and adults celebrates people's strengths, stories, reflection, values, relationships and goals.

We hope that these solution-focussed, strengths-based resources will continue to find a home all over the world with teachers, psychologists, counsellors, mentors, parents, family workers, youth workers, supervisors, team-builders, mental health and disability support services—and anyone who works with others to bring about positive change.

Most of all we hope that our resources will help create conversations that can, like a teapot, bring comfort. But we also hope they generate insight, understanding, change and ways forward in professional and educational settings, as well as in interactions that can happen anytime around the kitchen table, in a café, and perhaps even—over coffee!

*Best wishes,
The Team at Innovative Resources*

AGE OF ADVENTURE

The strengths
of active ageing

Welcome to the age of adventure, a delightful, photography-based card set that celebrates the energy and contribution of older community members. These colour photographs explore the diverse ways in which seniors engage with their communities, their relationships, their daily routines, and their intellectual and physical endeavours.

Age of Adventure features 50 full-colour photographic images that aim to challenge stereotypes of 'the elderly', enhance life-direction, reinforce positive aspects—such as gained wisdom—and validate older people's choices. Here are images to make you laugh, reflect, celebrate, and acknowledge the vital roles and diversity offered by older members of our communities.

Older and younger generations alike can use Age of Adventure to explore possibilities and set goals for the future.

- Which card comes closest to your picture of how you would like to grow old?
- What might stop you growing old in this way?
- Which card represents the most likely picture of yourself in old age?
- Which characters do you admire most? Why?

Foreword by Joan Kirner A.M,
former Premier of Victoria

ANGELS

THE STRENGTHS OF EVERYDAY KINDNESS

Angels—the strengths of everyday kindness is a set of 52 exquisitely-illustrated, heart-warming cards featuring 'everyday' angels. Each card represents an important quality or skill that we may want to celebrate or invite into our family, workplace, classroom and community, such as contentment, peace, assertiveness, clarity, openness, balance or adventure.

Counsellors, social workers, teachers, trainers, managers and motivators can use these cards to build conversations, encourage storytelling, and help people of all ages think differently about who they are, what is important, and how to navigate life's ups and downs.

- Is there a card that reminds you of someone you know?
- Can you choose a card that represents something you have received or given today? (It could be a quality, a feeling, a virtue, or an act of kindness.)
- Think of someone who could really use some support right now: What card represents a quality you would want to 'visit' them?
- Is there a card that represents a strength you would like to develop more?
- What is one step you could take towards this?
- For something you are about to undertake, which two cards represent the strengths you will need most?

ANXIETY SOLUTIONS FOR KIDS

50 WAYS TO RIDE THE WAVE

Activities to help children manage anxious thoughts and build resilience

Most children (and adults!) experiencing worry or anxious feelings think they have little or no control over what they think or how they feel. So, consulting psychologist and clinical nutritionist Selina Byrne (M.A.P.S), illustrator Katie Jardine, and Innovative Resources got together to create a resource that can give children aged between 3-14 years some simple, fun activities to calm their brain and soothe their mood. These cards are based on clinically-proven techniques including mindfulness, cognitive behavioural therapy, brain research and positive psychology. With these cards parents, teachers, psychologists, counsellors, early childhood educators, health workers, family workers, and foster carers will have a kit bag of great activities for helping children soothe anxiety, relax and re-set. These fun, respectful, simple techniques cover a range of different learning preferences (inside/outside, quiet/active, individual/group, and so on) and are for any child who experiences worry from time to time—and that's every child!

This card set does not replace professional care. For concern about persistent anxiety, please consult a professional.

'Anxiety Solutions for Kids is bursting with solution-oriented strategies to quickly re-route the brain. We learn anxiety and we can unlearn it!'

CARD PACK

BABY STRENGTHS

Understanding baby behaviours, nurturing healthy bonds

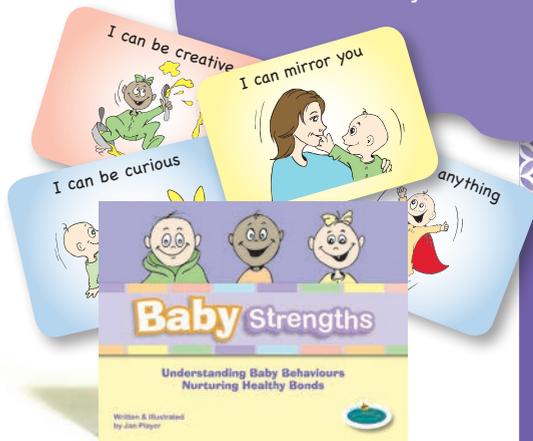

Caring for a baby or toddler can be fun, surprising, challenging, exhausting...the best and most difficult thing you have ever done! Baby Strengths is a set of delightfully-illustrated cards to help build or reinforce behaviours crucial for secure attachment between babies and their primary carers. Each card features a 'baby strengths' illustration and a strengths-based statement to help carers:

- recognise baby strengths
- recognise baby and toddler individuality
- understand baby cues
- nurture connections with baby
- build solid foundations for baby development.

With a fresh and distinctive style, Baby Strengths cards can be used as the 'voice' of your baby or toddler, by inviting you to reflect on baby's perspective.

Baby Strengths can be used to build dynamic conversations with anyone who cares for babies and parents, including childcare and family workers, childbirth/parenting educators, health and cultural diversity professionals, couples, family groups, grandparents, caregivers, and mothers and fathers.

- How are the emotions portrayed by the baby pictured on the card different from or similar to the emotions which the baby in your care shows when he or she is behaving this way?

- How do you think the baby in your care feels when he or she is behaving in a similar way to the baby pictured on the card?
- What do you think your baby will need from you when he or she is behaving this way?

THE BEARS

The absolute classic for talking about feelings with anyone, any age

We live our whole lives in the company of our feelings and emotions—and yet it can be very hard to talk about them. From kindergartens to universities, from school classrooms to prisons, from family therapy to community development, from counselling to management, The Bears have brought conversations about feelings alive for over two decades.

Welcome to the brand new edition of this iconic card set featuring a whole new troupe of bears, bursting with personality just like you, your family and friends; and a booklet of suggestions. Open a pack of The Bears and let these happy, sad, surprised, angry, puzzled and joyful characters do the talking.

- Select a bear that illustrates how you are feeling right now.
- Select cards that show how you often/seldom feel.
- Which bears show how you would like to be feeling most of the time?
- Create a family sculpture by selecting a bear for each of your family members.
- Do you ever feel several emotions at once? Choose cards to illustrate these mixed emotions.
- Evaluate customer service or workshop success using The Bears.

Also available as: an app (see page 68), a set of Tactile Characters (see page 70) and as a value collection of Bears products called the Bears Bundle, involving a bonus Bears cube! (see page 70).

CAN-DO DINOSAURS

It doesn't matter if we are four or one hundred and four—every day we rely on a vast repertoire of skills. Children, however, with their innate curiosity and aptitude for learning, are naturally poised to absorb the wisdom, habits, attitudes and values of the adults around them. Can-Do Dinosaurs features a herd of 28 dinosaurs direct from the Jurassic era, but with a timeless and invaluable message for children—that they can learn and grow by focussing on what they can do, rather than on what they can't. These cards are tailor-made to help children build competencies and develop skills.

- Select a card that says what you are already good at.
- Choose one you want to learn more about over a week/month.
- Notice what your students or children do well. Acknowledge them with the appropriate card or sticker.
- Ask children which friendly dinosaur they would like to invite into the classroom/kitchen/bathroom/lounge room today. Create a collage/painting with them around that theme.
- Ask young children to sit in a circle. Each person picks a card and demonstrates how they do the action shown on the card.
- Which cards would you pick for your mother/father/friends?

CARS 'R' US

Cars 'R' Us is built around a fleet of very human-looking cars demonstrating a range of emotions in everyday situations. Bursting with personality and fun, these boisterous, quiet, shy, angry, happy, racy and just plain goofy car characters provide rich metaphors for describing our good days and bad days, our mistakes and successes...and the choices we can make.

Inspired by Choice Theory, Reality Therapy and strengths-based ideas, Cars 'R' Us is a conversation-building tool for exploring our feelings and setting goals.

- What am I thinking?
- What am I feeling?
- What's happening in my body?
- What do I really want?
- Is what I am doing now working?
- What can I learn from this?
- What will I do next?

What kind of car are you today?
What kind of car would you like to be?
Be in the driver's seat of your life!

CHOOSING STRENGTHS

Learning to make good choices

Everyone has strengths. Sometimes they shine like blazing lights and sometimes we may wonder where our strengths have gone. But they are there—if we choose to call on them.

Choosing Strengths is a set of 36 cards and booklet developed in the rich tradition of Choice Theory and strengths-based practice. Each stunningly designed, full-colour card features the phrase 'I can choose to be...' and then identifies a strength that anyone can choose to practise and make their own.

Youth workers really love this resource! That's because making good choices is a key component in staying on track and reaching our potential. It is an essential and hard-won skill for everyone. It is at the heart of solution-oriented conversations with young people and adults alike.

Choosing Strengths can be used in:

- family and youth work
- schools and organisations
- pastoral care and personal development
- counselling, therapy and social work
- coaching, mentoring and supervision
- storytelling and creative writing

Want lots of good ideas for how to use this resource? Go to the Choosing Strengths page on our website, and click on the 'Ideas Bank'.

DEEP SPEAK

THE WORLD ACCORDING TO YOU

Some questions take us by surprise, some questions make us laugh and some questions challenge our picture of who we are. Questions can act as powerful doorways into conversation and storytelling. Through sharing our stories, thoughts and feelings we create connections with others and engage with our own growth and change.

Deep Speak is a set of 120 cards, each with its own question presented in an edgy, dynamic, font-based design, plus a 24-page booklet of suggestions. The cards are colour-coded into six broad themes—openers, identity, beliefs, emotions, values and relationships.

While Deep Speak is designed to appeal to adolescents, adults also respond warmly to the mix of questions. Teachers, counsellors, therapists, social workers, chaplains, youth workers, workshop facilitators and parents can use Deep Speak to build rich discussions about some of life's big questions... and some of the little quirky ones as well.

- Each person in a group randomly chooses a card and is invited to answer the question.
- Choose a card and use the question as a prompt for journal writing.
- Each person selects a card to answer as a way of introducing themselves at a workshop.

Questions for opening up dynamic conversations with young people

FUNKY FISH FEELINGS

Fabulous fish characters for helping you describe feelings

Welcome to the fishbowl! Funky Fish Feelings is a beautifully illustrated, gently humorous card set full of highly expressive and vibrant aquatic characters created to help you do all the talking. The expressions on these funky fish faces have a simple but vital task—to provide an alternative way of articulating feelings. Each card is word-free and provides an easily-accessible visual metaphor for those of us who may at times find it challenging to identify, name and describe our feelings and emotions. Kate Northover's 48 funky fish provide a useful contribution to the ongoing challenge faced by all human service workers of ensuring everyone is given a voice, especially those who, for whatever reason, have traditionally been silenced.

- Would you like to tell a story using the fish cards about your best, worst and funniest experiences today or this week?
- If you start out as a grumpy fish, how do you go about becoming a more contented one?

48 aquatic characters who might just bear an uncanny resemblance to people you know!

GENDER FAIRNESS

CONVERSATIONS ABOUT EQUITY

We know it's high time to have open discussions about gender fairness but how do we get constructive, change-oriented conversations going? What tool can be used to assist in creating effective gender policy and cultural change in organisations and businesses? Welcome to Gender Fairness—a highly-engaging, beautifully-presented learning tool for creating conversation and reflection from the kitchen table to the board room.

Each card features an important topic (such as inclusion, sexualisation, social messages and role models); a key statement about fairness; a cartoon in the rich tradition of social commentary; and three important questions to get the conversation rolling.

Use these cards in meetings, workshops, planning sessions, HR settings, governance, counselling and policy making for:

- exploring gender roles, stereotypes, and steps towards equity
- discussing how gender unfairness limits opportunities and creates power imbalances
- creating shared learning for teams, organisations, businesses and communities
- shifting cultures of gender unfairness by naming and challenging inequity
- developing an inspiring vision for gender equity that benefits everyone.

Gender equity is everyone's business—get the conversation rolling!

GIRLTOPIA

A world of real conversations for real girls

These exquisitely designed cards have been created to encourage a spirit of enquiry, non-judgement, acceptance, curiosity, reflection and celebration among girls and women. Arranged in five suits, Girltopia can be used to help foster the many important conversations necessary to support girls as they mature to adulthood. Such conversations can be part of strategies for working with issues like body image, self-esteem, depression, eating disorders, sexualisation and bullying. These strengths-based cards can be used with groups or individuals, by teachers, parents, youth workers, health workers, counsellors and pastoral care workers.

Each card features thought-provoking phrases, intriguing images and gentle questions, all devised to help invite conversations with girls.

- The 8 'Me' cards draw on the power of telling stories and feature simple sentence starters.
- The 11 'Doing' cards describe an overarching mode of action and are intended to help girls build an appreciation of their own skills, preferences and individuality, as well as those of others.
- The 21 'Feeling' cards offer gentle cues—simple words and triggers—to help foster emotional intelligence and assist girls to name, communicate and consciously navigate feelings.
- The 13 'Us' cards invite thoughtful exploration of relationships using pithy questions and conversational prompts.

- The 17 'Body' cards offer a rich array of questions and quotes for girls to deepen their understanding and appreciation of their female bodies. These cards have been devised to nurture grounded body awareness and positive body image. (Please note: some Body cards invite quite explicit discussion of women's sexual anatomy; these cards can be easily put aside in contexts where they are not required.)

GROWING WELL

WAYS OF NOTICING OUR EMOTIONAL AND MENTAL WELLBEING

The Growing Well kit is made up of 50 cards with a booklet of suggestions. This practical, simple and highly innovative resource is built around 50 key statements that are important indicators of mental health and balance. Accompanying each statement is a 'scale' using simple illustrations of a seed growing into a tree. Use these cards to measure how connected, healthy, active, satisfied or organised you or your clients may be feeling.

Growing Well is an original tool that can:

- Map our pathways through depression, trauma, loss and bereavement or through everyday health challenges such as stress, self-doubt and low self-esteem
- Be used by mental health professionals and people without any training
- Encourage a focus on strengths rather than deficits
- Build emotional balance, mental clarity and reflective conversations.

INSIDE OUT: A JOURNALLING KIT

An inspiring collection of journalling topics and techniques.

Journalling is a powerfully creative way to 'name' our feelings, tell our stories and navigate life's ups and downs. Here is a boxed set of 32 full-colour, gate-folded cards designed to stand upright on a desk. A key word (with a whimsical illustration) appears on one side of the card, while the reverse features a quote and range of simple, yet effective journalling techniques. A fabulous resource for teachers.

- Stand the cards up on a table. Ask students/clients/group members to choose one and use it as a prompt for journalling for 10 minutes. Participants may respond to the key word, quote, illustration, or the journalling techniques.
- Randomly select a card and use it as a 10 minute journalling theme every day for a week. Circle key words. Any themes or patterns?
- Select cards that relate to events/characters in a book you are studying. Write a dialogue/poem/short story on the theme from that character's point of view.
- Experiment with a range of journalling techniques covered in the cards e.g. lists, sentence starters, unsent letters, dialogue and clusters.

THE KANGAS AND THE KOALAS

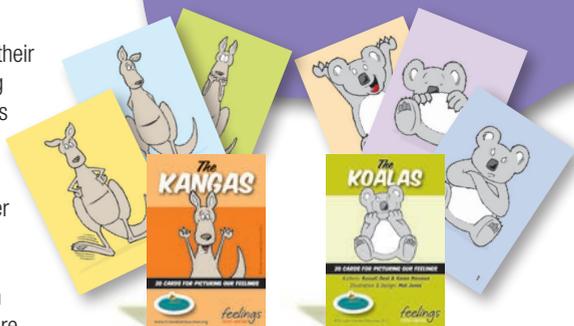

Explore feelings with pocket-sized cards featuring two of Australia's favourite marsupials

Meet The Kangas and The Koalas—two pocket-sized card sets that can help anyone talk about their feelings! For children and adults alike, identifying and naming feelings can be a real challenge; this is when the right picture truly can be worth a thousand words.

Each card features a kangaroo or koala character who expresses a different emotion: happy, sad, proud, scared, curious, frustrated, friendly... and many more. While there are just 20 cards in each set, countless emotions and body signals are expressed through the images.

Perfect for teachers, trainers, social workers, managers, counsellors, supervisors, team builders and parents—anyone who wants to talk about feelings, stories, memories, goals, evaluation...

- Pick cards that sum up your feelings about your weekend/your project/your relationship/a situation/ the last few weeks/the past year/your job.
- Pick cards to evaluate how a project went. Which Kanga or Koala were you at various times during the project? Which one are you now?
- Turn the cards over one at a time and name as many different feelings as you can for each card. What body signals match those feelings?
- Use two packs of Koalas or Kangas (or one of each) to play games of 'Snap', matching the same feelings.

LIFE TWEAKING

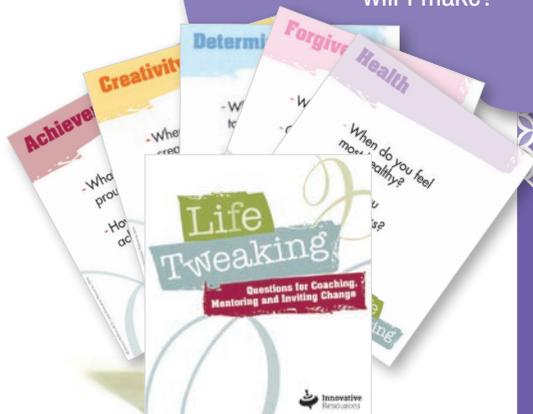

QUESTIONS FOR COACHING, MENTORING AND INVITING CHANGE

Perhaps it is the small tweaks that make the most difference in the end? But how do we know where to start? Let your values lead the way! Life Tweaking belongs in the 'tool kits' of people who want to bring about growth and change. Through questions, conversation, storytelling and reflection, Life Tweaking helps people identify their values, strengths, priorities and next steps. Each card features a key topic such as goals, happiness, health, risks, teamwork, balance and money; and two questions that can be used to open up dynamic conversations.

This card set can be used with adolescents and adults in coaching, mentoring, counselling, therapy, faith-based communities, job interviews and workplace training ... anywhere goals and values are discussed.

- Invite participants in a workshop or group to introduce themselves using three cards.
- Use a selection of cards to speak about how your values have changed over time.
- Which cards represent values that are most important to you right now?
- Pick a card that represents an important goal. What are some key steps along the way?
- Place the cards face down and ask everyone to pick a card at random. What does this card mean to you?

What's important to me?
Where am I heading?
What changes will I make?

'I am amazed at a person's ability to shape and change their lives through the simple act of discovering their own unique set of values.'

CARDS AND BONUS COLOURING BOOK

Fun ways to build friendships and prevent bullying

What are the characteristics of real friendships? Here is a set of 32 colourful, light-hearted cards and a bonus colouring book to help us learn how to build and celebrate our friendships. Use this good-natured and engaging tool for learning about social skills, communication, personalities and interests. This is a truly unique resource for preventing and overcoming bullying, and creating relationships of goodwill and hope.

- What makes a really good friend or team? Select 3 or 4 cards.
- Pick 3 cards that describe what some of your friends/you/your team do well. Is there a card that shows what you would like to be better at?
- Pick cards that say something about how you can be a friend to yourself.
- Pick a card that illustrates a difficult experience you have had in a friendship (e.g. 'We have our moments'). Were you able to move forward together or did the friendship dissolve? What did you learn?
- Invite everyone present at a celebration to select a card they think matches the honorary guest.

THE NATURE OF STRENGTHS

Drawing on nature's genius to build life skills

Here is a set of 28 cards with exquisite watercolour paintings in the style of an 18th-century naturalist's notebook. Each card describes a characteristic of a plant, animal or insect, and in this way names a strength or skill that we humans can use to build resilience and capacity. Each card features a key phrase, such as 'Choosing Wisely', 'Changing Direction', 'Having Heart', 'Letting Go', and 'Holding on'.

Imagine if we applied these qualities even more in our own lives! What would change? What would we be able to achieve? These are great conversations to have with adolescents and adults.

A truly inspiring resource for teachers, trainers, environmental educators, life coaches, mentors, therapists, artists, writers ... and anyone who wants to build life skills.

- Which cards reflect strengths I have right now?
- Which cards reflect the strengths of my team, class or organisation?
- Choose two cards that you think are opposites. Which behaviour is easier or more challenging to you? Why?
- Pick a card and research this animal or plant. What other behaviours does it have? Would you like to emulate any of these in your own life?
- Choose two cards that name strengths you could use in your life right now.

- What is the first step in practising these strengths?
- Pick a card and discuss how you apply the strength you see in this plant, animal or insect.
- Choose a creature or plant that is not in this card set and create your own card. What is a characteristic behaviour of your subject? In what ways can you do this too?

NEW!

NEXT STEPS

This card set is made up of 40 full-colour photographs and is designed for use in settings such as mental health, family services, counselling and emergency support. It provides an opportunity for people to choose a tangible, easily recognisable, simple task they can do this afternoon or tomorrow. These are not the big picture goals that may feel way beyond our reach. They are the everyday activities and choices we can put into action within a short time frame. Perhaps our task today is to simply open the curtains, have a shower, call a friend, make an appointment or go for a walk? Humble though such tasks may seem, they are nevertheless significant, especially when we are in the midst of difficulty, having trouble thinking clearly, or need to begin with some simple, achievable action.

Perhaps the simplest and most practical mental health tool ever?

NOTE TO SELF

Reminders for self-care and life's choices

What do I really want? What are my choices?
What can I learn from difficulty? What is one step
I will take today?

Right questions at the right time are powerful catalysts for change. They can open up possibilities we may never have imagined and remind us to be the best we can be. Drawing on the wisdom of Choice Theory (which states that the only behaviour we can change is our own), Note to Self consists of 24 full colour cards with over 70 intriguing questions—questions that will help us take control of our life, make conscious choices and clarify goals. Each card features a simple but profound affirmation on one side of the card, with three related questions on the reverse. Divided into six suits—Power, Perspective, Potential, Purpose, Preservation, and Practice—these cards offer the opportunity to re-write the script of our lives, one Note to Self at a time.

- Select a card you would like to reflect on for a day/week/month. Place it on your mirror, near your bed or in your car.
- Select a card that represents an aspect of your life. What have you learned about this statement? What more would you like to learn about it?

Right questions at the right time are powerful catalysts for change.

- Select a card that represents a skill your team does well. Is there one that your team would like to develop further?
- Select a card at random. Write about it in your journal or discuss it with a friend.

OPTIMISM BOOSTERS

Powerful questions
to set you free

The right question at the right time can stop our negative thought patterns in their tracks. Suddenly, we see optimistic possibilities.

Written by consulting psychologist and clinical nutritionist Selina Byrne M.A.P.S., each of the 30 cards in this newly designed set creates a window into change by asking a key question. There are three suits—goals, possibilities and strategies—and ten question cards in each suit. Dip into the cards with your friends, clients or students for fresh ways of thinking about problems and decisions, or use them to complement other card sets.

Bright new design with larger cards
and expanded booklet.

- Thinking of a challenging situation, select a card randomly. Does the question shed new light? Keep going until you find one that does. Write/talk about this.
- Choose a card from each suit (possibilities, strategies, goals). Using the questions, write a paragraph on each. Distil your thoughts into very simple sentences.
- Select a card that feels particularly relevant/interesting. Use it as a contemplation for the week. Ask yourself the question several times a day. Then write some very simple action points.
- Which questions do you often/seldom/never ask yourself? Do some always work well for you? Experiment with some unfamiliar ones.

OUR SCRAPBOOK OF STRENGTHS

Strengths that support families, communities and teams

Each of the 42 cards in this set presents a powerful window into the characteristics of strong families, groups and communities. Based on extensive post-graduate research, eight broad topics—communication, togetherness, acceptance, resilience, affection, support, sharing activities and commitment—are explored.

On each card is a 'strengths statement' such as 'We keep each other hopeful', together with a set of small water-colour paintings. The whole card is arranged as if it were a page from a family scrapbook.

- Which cards most represent what you experience as a child?
- Which ones do you think are representative of your identity now?
- Which strengths would you most like to be present in your family/community/project team today? Create your own scrapbook to illustrate these.
- Are there times when your family/community/workgroup faces adversity? Which strengths do you think are most useful then?
- Is there a card that reminds you of something that happened in your family/a family you know?

A PATCHWORK LIFE

Archetypal images for storytelling, journalling
and transformation

Our lives are a patchwork of many different memories, experiences, dreams and relationships, sewn together to form our unique selves. The 40 cards in this deck are rich in narrative and imaginative possibilities, and feature the exquisite illustrations of Nicole Reading. The cards are designed to inspire the conversations, storytelling and creativity of women of all ages. They can be used flexibly by individuals and in group settings. These beautiful cards are accompanied by stickers featuring complementary imagery for creative use.

- Choose a card or sticker and use it as a prompt for journalling.
- Ask members of a group to select cards reflecting their values as a team.
- Choose a card representing an important issue in your life. Draw what is happening beyond the picture frame.
- Select five cards and use them to tell a story. What happens when the cards are rearranged?
- Select a card and arrange others around it to form a 'quilt' reflecting your special qualities.

PICTURE THIS

Photographs to stimulate the imagination,
memory and emotions

An image, especially a photograph, can have a unique ability to stimulate the imagination, memory and emotions.

The 75 original, evocative photographs that make up Picture This offer opportunities for people of all ages to reflect on their experiences and communicate with others. Some of these full-colour images are poignant, some are heart-warming a others are tinged with humour. This interpretive tool can open up conversational storytelling and creative writing about goals, and points of view.

- Is there a photo that says something about you as a person?
- If you were actually in this photo what would you be doing?
- Is there a photo that represents how you feel about your situation right now?
- If you could, what would you like to change in the photo?
- Are there any two photos that describe contrasting parts of who you are?

A picture is worth a thousand words.

POSITIVE PARENTING CARDS

You're a parent; you're a hero! Parenting can be the most difficult and the most rewarding role imaginable. These delightful, approachable cards give parents, grandparents, foster parents and guardians an opportunity to explore the joys, sorrows, challenges and gifts of parenting. These cards are built on the assumption that everyone is motivated to be the best parent they can be. Even if families are sometimes overtaken by difficulty, there are times when every parent can celebrate their successes, and those of their children. Noticing and telling the stories of these successes is pivotal in building hope, resilience and the skills needed to parent well.

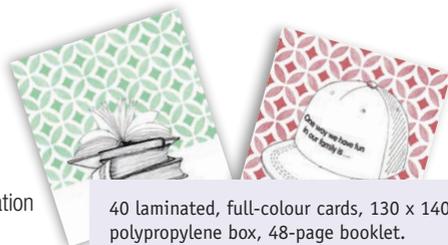

Each of the cards features a simple sentence starter like:

- I was proud of my children when ...
- A good thing about my family is ...
- As a parent I was really surprised when ...

Each sentence starter is accompanied by an illustration of an everyday household item—a toaster, a pet's bowl, a toothbrush—to remind us of the elements of family life that surround us. Positive Parenting Cards invite all parents to explore their beliefs, values, hopes and dreams for their children, and for themselves as parents.

Parents, foster parents and parent educators:
This one is for you!

REFLEXIONS

Coming Soon

A set of 34 stunning, full-colour cards for anyone who works with youth. Now with two additional cards, enhanced design and images throughout, Reflexions provides the right visual edge for adolescents, right now. Using key words and montages of photographs and fonts, these cards will continue to lead the way in encouraging young people to talk about feelings, goals and identity. Real conversations—about the hard stuff, the painful stuff, as well as the good stuff, and the changes a young person may want to make.

Who am I?

What am I feeling?

What's important to me?

What choices and changes do I want?

Where am I at and where am I heading?

Each card features a key word and layers of images that build different meaning and nuances of interpretation for rich, authentic conversations with young people.

- For truancy issues: Choose 3 cards that describe how you are feeling at school. Place them in a column. Pick 3 cards that say how you want to be feeling. How will you get from the first to the second column?
- Pick a card that seems important to you right now. How do you experience this in your life? Talk about this in pairs.

RESPECT & JUSTICE CARDS

Best practice is characterised by genuine collaboration between people. 'Power-with', as it is known, challenges us to address power imbalances and structures that constrain, discriminate and disadvantage. It also challenges us to create conditions that build hope, respect and fairness.

Following the success of The Strengths Approach by Wayne McCashen (see p.65), here is a set of 30 small format cards that act as reminders for doing best practice. Each card features a phrase followed by a question.

For example:

- Keeping optimism alive: How do we help build a hopeful picture of the future?
- Tackling stuckness and friction:
How do we notice and build on exceptions to the problem?
- Understanding the power of labels:
How do we challenge stereotypes?

These simple cards provide opportunities for trainers, facilitators, teachers, managers, social workers, teams, communities and individuals to engage in lively discussion and reflection on the principles and practices of the best practice.

THE SCALING KIT DVD

Visual metaphors
for noticing change

Social workers, teachers, counsellors, therapists, parents: here is an empowering, simple and fun way to measure change and notice progress with your clients, students, groups, teams, families and communities.

The Scaling Kit is now only available on DVD, and consists of a booklet of suggestions and 10 interactive scaling masters with moveable components and text bubbles. You can open up one or more of the scaling masters on your computer and simply print it out for the client to write on. Or...you may want to explore the digital interactivity with your client directly online by opening the master(s) on your computer or ipad, and moving a component (such as an arrow) on the scaling master according to where the client indicates they are at on the scale. There is also a text bubble where such things as the client's plans, comments and goals can be typed.

For example, if you and your client decide to use the ladder scale, there is a little interactive marker at the side of the ladder which can be moved up or down the rungs. When the marker is at the place the client chooses, the scaling sheet can be printed out showing the client's rating choices on the scale and any comments typed in the text bubble. In this way, the scaling sheet is personalised to each client and each session.

The 10 interactive masters on the DVD are:
Balance – Circle – Ladder – Pathway – Pendulum – Rating – Wheel – Sun Up/Sun Down – Thermometer – Ups and Downs – Water Tank.

From goal-setting to building skills, from changes in behaviour or mood to evaluation, visual scaling is one of the most powerful ways to measure change.

Celebrating - Evaluating

SENSITIVE NEW AGE CAVEPERSONS

A tribe of engaging characters inviting conversations about male identity, purpose and fulfillment

Through the ages men have been called upon to juggle an array of roles—partner, father, son, brother, colleague, friend, confidant. The Sensitive New Age Cavepersons card set invites reflection and discussion about the pressures and stresses faced by modern men as they undertake a myriad of roles and responsibilities. Each comical Neolithic character invites rich conversations about male identity, purpose and fulfillment, and offers a cue to help build discussions about ‘the important stuff’—what it is to be a bloke in today’s world. Women may also like to use these cards to talk about the strengths and roles of the men in their lives. Sensitive New Age Cavepersons support conversations about our skills, strengths, virtues and resources, regardless of gender.

- Are you comfortable with the roles you take on?
- Which ones do you prefer and which ones are you reluctant to take on?
- How do you juggle the multiple roles that you are often required to perform simultaneously?
- How do you resolve the conflicts that arise when roles clash?
- How do you become the person you really want to be?

SHADOWS AND DEEPER SHADOWS

Seeing the darkness;
looking for light

No one walks in light all the time. To experience challenge is to be human. Sometimes pain and difficulty need to be heard before hope can truly be invited in and pathways to resolution found.

This expanded edition of Shadows has 48 evocative watercolour images to create conversations and help us connect with the struggles—and breakthroughs—of everyday living. Let the images wash over you; allow time for reflection, conversation and writing. You may well discover new worlds of meaning and hope.

- Which card says something to you about the situation you are facing?
- Which card gives a clue about a way forward?
- Pick a card that creates a particular feeling or reminds you of something from your childhood.
- Choose a character from a Shadows card and write from that person's perspective. What are they thinking, feeling, dreaming?

Deep listening is a gift for the listener and the one who is heard.

SIGNPOSTS

EXPLORING EVERYDAY SPIRITUALITY

What's important, meaningful as sacred
to you?

This set of 48 cards is based on original photographs and is designed for building conversations about meaning, spirituality, priorities and transformation. This tool is not based on a particular theology or philosophy. It explores ways to reflect on life's purpose and to convert values into actions. Each card combines a powerful full-colour photograph with a few simple words. Signposts can revitalise our contemplation and create dynamic conversations about matters we hold closest to our hearts.

- Select a card and speak about an experience you have had on this theme. Which other cards represent themes that are strong for you now?
- Which cards do you think you do well? Which would you like to learn to practise more often?
- Thinking of a time of transition/challenge, select 3 cards that were strengths you drew on at the time/you now draw on.
- If you could 'gift' a quality/ability to a friend/family member/colleague, which card would you choose?
- Randomly select a card. Use this as a contemplation/writing theme for the week. Have any key understandings emerged?

SOMETIMES MAGIC

CELEBRATING THE MAGIC OF EVERYDAY LEARNING

Magic happens with the right
learning style!

At last—a tool that explores the different, and often surprising, ways that people learn. This set of 33 cards is a highly creative resource for anyone who facilitates learning and development. Each card features a 'learning statement' beginning with, 'Sometimes magic happens when...' together with a beautiful illustration of a native Australian animal or bird. The behaviour of the animal is linked to the learning statement creating a delightful metaphor for discussing our different learning styles.

- Choose a card that best describes how you learnt as a child.
- Choose 3 cards that illustrate learning styles that are important to you now.
- Which cards represent the learning styles that your school or organisation tends to favour? Which ones would you like to see acknowledged/developed more? How will you bring these into your learning environment?
- Thinking of a mentor or role model, choose a card that expresses their primary strengths as a teacher for you.
- Can you think of a learning experience you have had that matches each of the cards?

STONES...HAVE FEELINGS TOO!

Sometimes we simply do not have words for our feelings. Sometimes we struggle to interpret the feelings of others. But no matter what our age, the ability to navigate our feelings is at the heart of emotional wellbeing. Meet a pile of 52 quirky, happy, sad, afraid, shy and just plain outrageous 'stone' characters who wear their feelings all over their not-so-stony faces. On the back of each card there are three possible 'feelings' words that can be used to help build our feelings vocabulary. Illustrator Ray Bowler has breathed life into these rollicking stone characters and proved what every child who has ever carried a stone around in their pocket knows...stones have feelings too!

- At the beginning of a meeting/workshop invite each participant to select a card for how they are feeling. Then a card for how they would like to be feeling by the end of the event. Check in at the end.
- Choose 2 cards—one showing a feeling you are comfortable with; the other showing a feeling that is difficult/unfamiliar. Let these two stone characters have a dialogue. Write it down and share in pairs.
- Select 3 cards. Look at the words on the back. Brainstorm a list of other possible words.

STORYCATCHING

Sharing the joys and struggles of life through storytelling

Stories not only help us find common ground with others—whether they be friends, family, colleagues or the people in the wider community—but also provide us with a sense of where we've come from and how we fit in.

Storycatching is a set of 80 full-colour cards that provide storytelling prompts for people of all ages. They can be used wherever people come together—from school classrooms to creative writing programs, as a game for families or a therapeutic tool for anyone who works with people. Whatever the application, Storycatching provides opportunities to reflect upon our thoughts, feelings and attitudes to life.

Storycatching is a fun and effective way to explore creativity, honour diversity, and share both the joys and struggles of our lives in the most natural way possible—by sharing stories!

STRENGTH CARDS FOR KIDS

All children deserve to be recognised and celebrated for their strengths. Strengths help children learn, grow and fulfil their potential. Children thrive when their strengths and efforts are noticed, and they develop self-esteem and resilience by drawing on their strengths to meet challenges. That's why Strength Cards for Kids has been an essential resource for teachers, family therapists, counsellors, social workers, parents, grandparents, and carers of children worldwide for over 25 years. With this fun-loving troupe of animal characters you

- focus on what children can do, not what they can't
- turn difficulties into strengths children are developing
- encourage children to notice and talk about strengths ... and watch the cultures of schools and families blossom
- ask students to choose a card for each person in their family or class
- place the cards in a bag and invite a child to draw out a card from the 'lucky dip' each day. The class or family can focus on this as the 'strength of the day/week'.
- reframe problems such as bullying into skills to be learned.

STRENGTHS IN CIRCLES

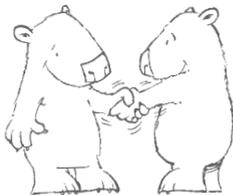

BUILDING GROUPS THAT FLOURISH AND FLY

Creating cohesive, effective teams
and groups

Circles technology is a much-loved approach to group facilitation that is used in school classrooms, dispute resolution, mediation, juvenile justice, reconciliation processes and restorative justice practice. Group workers and facilitators around the world have adopted Circles processes.

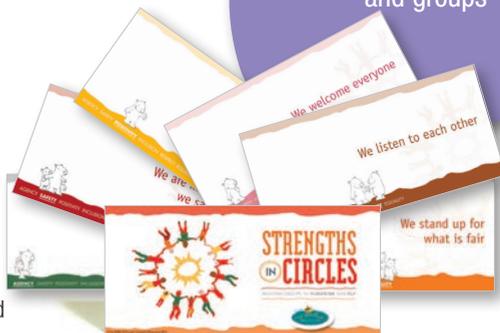

And now here it is: the world's first hands-on tool identifying 42 key elements that sit at the hub of Circles conversations. These are the values or ground rules that build cultures of respect into Circles work. Based on Sue Roffee's 'ASPIRE' acronym, Strengths in Circles is built around 7 essential themes:

- AGENCY
- SAFETY
- POSITIVITY
- INCLUSION
- RESPECT
- EQUALITY

Each theme (or suit) has 6 cards naming key values that can be discussed, interpreted and considered for adoption as ground rules by any group. At any stage in a group's life, the cards can act as reminders of what is important. They can also be used as tools for planning and evaluation.

Watch the dynamics of the group evolve within the sphere of these values!

'Strengths in Circles takes an explicit strengths-based approach to facilitation and brings Circles technology alive – for both experienced practitioners and those just stepping into running groups.'

STRENGTHS IN TEAMS

Building strong,
effective teams

Most of us spend a great deal of our lives being part of one team or another—at school, in the community, in clubs, in sport and at work.

We are surrounded by teams and we are bombarded with ideas about how we can make our participation in teams more effective and more satisfying. There are libraries chock-full of books about teamwork and leadership.

Strengths in Teams is not a book, a manual or a training course that promises teamwork enlightenment. It is a set of 30 lavishly illustrated, full-colour cards depicting a zany and delightfully whacky circus. Except this circus looks very familiar—in fact, it shares all the idiosyncrasies and foibles of just about any team. But like any effective team, these characters also demonstrate that they have strengths, and they depend upon the strengths of all members.

Strengths in Teams has two simple messages:

- We all contribute strengths to our teams
- We all gain strengths from our teams.

Strengths in Teams is all about noticing, identifying, mobilising and celebrating these strengths.

If we focus on the problems or deficits in our teams, it is easy to become absorbed in what's not working—much more effective and fun is to focus on our strengths and those of others around us. Strengths in Teams is a resource for sharing leadership and aligning strengths.

We hope you will chuckle as you enter the world of these 30 cards. Introduce them to your colleagues and you are likely to unveil rich conversations and insights within your particular team.

SYMBOLS

Simple, potent icons to illuminate almost any situation. Go where words cannot.

Symbols gather a potent mix of meaning and significance around them. They can communicate with us almost immediately at a very deep level. Sometimes they help us go where words alone cannot. Because symbols have the power to speak directly to our sense of identity, they can be used to illuminate almost any situation. While Symbols (the card set) has its origins in grief and loss counselling, teachers, therapists, writers, social workers and facilitators will be among those to find their own creative uses for this set of 100 hand-drawn icons.

- Which cards would you use to describe yourself?
- Which cards would others use to describe you?
- Which cards represent the person you would most like to be?
- Which cards symbolise a relationship, event or goal in your life?

TALKING ECOLOGICAL

Families, communities, organisations, businesses, schools, teams and groups: environmental sustainability is on your agenda! These cards can be used for team building, planning and research, environmental education and evaluation, classroom activities, personal reflection, and even creative writing.

Each card features a topic, an intriguing statement, a thought-provoking question, and a quote. Each of these elements is a rich prompt for discussion about identity, values, challenges, and what motivates change. They say that change is the only constant! But sometimes we struggle to create it.

- Pick up the 'Processes of Change' cards from this set and use them to help create positive change of any kind.
- Choose 3 cards that you think will be pivotal in the change you want to bring about.
- Spread the cards out at a meeting, workshop or event, invite people to pick one that interests, challenges, puzzles or even annoys them.

Ecological sustainability is an emerging aspect of social justice and this resource bristles with the passion of the author; leading environmental sustainability educator and consultant, Ian McBurney. Watch the conversation and storytelling unfold.

TALKING UP OUR STRENGTHS

Celebrate the strengths of indigenous cultures

Talking Up Our Strengths is a set of 22 stunning photomontage cards that celebrate the strengths and resilience of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures. These cards are the result of a dynamic partnership between the Secretariat of National Aboriginal and Islander Child Care (SNAICC) and Innovative Resources. The themes of these cards include children, identity, knowledge, Elders, connection, celebrations, heroes, colours, language, stories, humour, music, sport, health, pride and hope. While these cards focus on the strengths that are inherent within two of the world's most enduring Indigenous cultures, they can also be used by people from any cultural background to build rich conversations about their own strengths and communities.

Together with the booklet of suggested uses, this card set offers ways to nurture pride and help people put into words memories, feelings, ideas, hopes and dreams. As well as being a visual feast, Talking Up Our Strengths is a catalyst for essential conversations and storytelling about Indigenous strengths and relationship-building in schools, communities, groups, social work settings, board rooms, family gatherings and back yards.

Whether spread out across the kitchen bench or on the tables of policy makers and politicians, these cards can be used as tools for reconciliation, social justice and pride in cultural diversity.

- Can you tell any stories about the strengths portrayed in this card?
- Which cards represents key strengths in your family or community?
- If one card could be your guide or motto, which card would you choose?

* Warning: Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people should be aware that this publication contains images of people who have passed away.

TWO WORLDS

WHEN RELATIONSHIPS END AND PARENTS SEPARATE

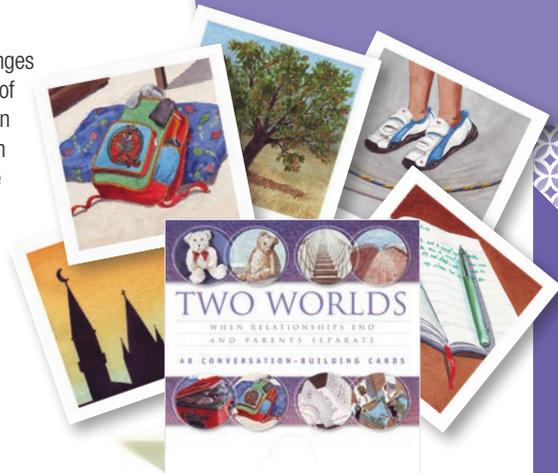

For those experiencing separation or any significant life changes

When a couple separates, one world becomes two. When that couple has children, they face the challenges of navigating their way through the two new worlds of their parents. These changes can be daunting—even overwhelming. It can be very challenging for children and young people to express their feelings and have their voices heard by the adults around them.

Adults also experience the emotional and physical upheaval of their previous world coming to an end, and the challenge of creating a new world for themselves and their children.

Designed by experienced separation counsellors and child and family workers, Two Worlds is a unique resource for building healing conversations with children or adults experiencing separation...or those experiencing any significant transitions and life changes.

- Do you sometimes feel you are living in two different worlds? If so, which cards describe your worlds now?
- What's it like going from one world to another? What are the hardest parts/best parts?
- What's different about your worlds now compared to before things changed?
- When you look at the cards, which ones say something about what concerns you most/what you look forward to most?

- Which cards that say something about what you are good at?
- How could you use those strengths to help you most now?

UPS AND DOWNS

A mental health tool for navigating life's
ups and downs

One does not need to live at the edge of the sea to appreciate the significance that seas and oceans have for us emotionally and spiritually.

The sea provides a very powerful metaphor for the human condition with its ever changing faces—calm, tempestuous, exhilarating, threatening, frustrating or...?

In Ups and Downs we have a small, very pink character sailing a bathtub (of all things!) through the vicissitudes of life. The different faces of the sea and the ups and downs of both the waves and the weather interact with the ups and downs of our daily emotional journeys.

Ups and Downs is a lighthearted, but also very poignant set of 54 full-colour cards that provide a unique way of giving voice to our emotions, our hopes, fears, disappointments, joys and our everyday journeys.

Ray Bowler's delightful illustrations appeal to many people of all ages but Ups and Downs has the special ability to capture the feelings that many adults, and notably many men, struggle to put into words.

Yes, these cards appeal to sailors, coast dwellers and land-lubbers alike, but they have also proven to be invaluable in working with survivors of natural disasters—drought, bushfires and floods—who find the sailing metaphor a safe way of exploring their emotional ups and downs.

VIEWS FROM THE VERANDAH

Goals, priorities and next steps

Here's a set of 54 cards for identifying values and planning for the future. Imagine sitting on a verandah surveying the landscape of your life. What lies just around the corner? What do you need to attend to today? What is even further ahead—on the horizon?

Perfect for talking about long and short term goals, Views from the Verandah is a card set for career planning, coaching and mentoring, evaluation, relationship counselling, and much more. In the new edition of this much-loved classic, a colourful cast of Australian critters comes to life to help families, teams, individuals and organisations identify aspirations and goals.

Coaches and mentors, career counsellors, educators, managers and social workers: use this card set to build rich, practical conversations about what is important in life, what we might want to change and what we hope for.

- Choose a card at random. What relevance does this card have for you at present? Have there been times in your life when the card has had more (or less) importance? Do you imagine it will be important to you in the future? Why?
- Select a few cards that identify strong themes in your life right now. Select some that identify what you would like to be doing more of in one week/ one month/six months/a year.

- Use the timeframe cards to put your hopes and anticipated changes into priority order. What do you want to change first and what can wait?
- Imagine you are being given an award/recognition. Select a card that shows what you would like to receive the award for.

A VISION FOR SUPERVISION

STRENGTHS-BASED QUESTIONS FOR REFLECTIVE CONVERSATIONS

Do you supervise others? Do you receive supervision?

Supervision plays a pivotal role in professional development. It can be a powerful means of discovery and learning for both supervisor and practitioner—with the benefits flowing on to clients. Here at last is an inspiring, practical tool for building your strengths-based supervision conversations from start to finish.

A Vision for Supervision consists of:

- 40 cards arranged in 5 colour-coded suits
- key topics such as 'Present situation', 'Hopes and plans', 'What worked?' and 'Noticing success'
- a total of 160 strengths-based questions for creating effective supervision conversations
- a booklet filled with suggestions for using the cards.

These cards will stretch and inspire human service students and practitioners, as well as their trainers, supervisors, mentors and managers. Organisations can use them to build a culture of best practice within their service delivery.

- Lay the cards out on the table at every supervision session and select ones that are most relevant today.
- Use the cards to establish your supervision agreement and plan your sessions.

At last! A tool for strengths-based, solution-focused supervision

'I see myself introducing A Vision for Supervision to practicum, internship, individual and group supervision, and supervision training contexts. Invent – adapt – learn – enjoy!

WALKING THE BOUNDARIES

EXPLORING EVERYDAY ETHICS IN HUMAN SERVICES

Would you ever...?
Ethical dilemmas faced in everyday practice

Riddle: How do you unleash hours of rich debate and development in your team of practitioners?

Answer: Open a pack of Walking the Boundaries and stand back!

Every human service profession, organisation and business is governed by the laws of the land. Most are held accountable to codes of conduct created from within their organisation or profession as well. But many practitioners, such as social workers, counsellors, teachers and carers, face a myriad of everyday ethical decisions regarding both clients and colleagues that may not be clear cut; they may not be defined by the law or enshrined within a code of conduct. When there is no absolute right or wrong answer, where do you draw the boundaries?

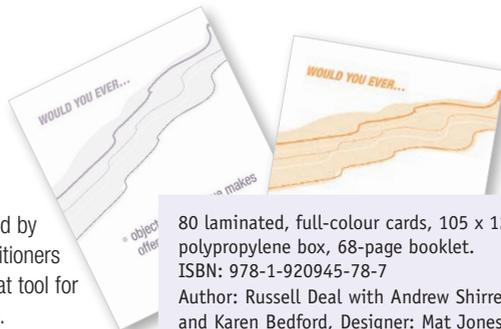

Would you ever:

- buy something from a client?
- go into business or date an ex-client?
- lend a client your car?
- borrow a client's car?
- disclose information about a client?

Walking the Boundaries has been designed by social workers for all human service practitioners to use for reflective practice. This is a great tool for orientation, supervision and team-building.

WHAT WORKS?

The strengths of any organisation

If you were searching for ways to describe the possible strengths of any organisation, what would you notice? Firstly, that organisations vary tremendously in a wide variety of ways! And at the same time, the most successful, creative and dynamic of them also have many strengths in common.

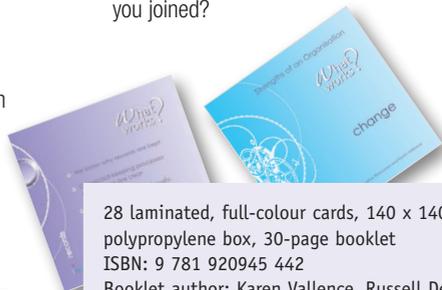

This conversation-building card set suggests 28 domains that might be seen as key areas for assessing and building strengths in any organisation. Each domain has four suggested indicators and a simple measurement scale that can be used to consider how your organisation shapes up. This is an engaging, gently provocative tool created in the spirit of Appreciative Inquiry and other strengths-based approaches that provides non-prescriptive windows into ways we can assess our organisations for strengths rather than deficits.

Developed by Kevin Vallence, Russell Deal and Karen Masman (the team who created Change By Design and Sometimes Magic) with beautiful designs by Robyn Spicer.

- Which cards represent key strengths of your organisation?
- Which cards represent strengths your organisation could develop further?
- Would everyone in the organisation agree with your selection?

- As you plan for the future, which strengths will your organisation need most?
- How would you describe your organisation's strengths now, as compared to when you joined?

WORDS

Simple, potent words that relate to life's struggles and joys

Single, unadorned words can have power and resonance; they can stand like beacons to illuminate our feelings, memories and stories. Each of the 100 cards in this set features a word that can prompt reflection and conversation about life, struggle, sadness, friendships, dreams, joy, grief and death—the whole gamut of what it means to be human. This card set grew out of discussions with counsellors who work daily with grief and loss. Equally, it can be used to encourage discovery and conversation in group work, workshop facilitation, public speaking, creative writing and narrative work.

- Select a card with a word that interests you for some reason. Why?
- Which cards best describe a life-changing event you have experienced (leaving home, the birth of a child, a great loss, an outstanding success)?
- Which cards best describe the past year (or week or month)?
- Select 7 cards and use one word as a theme for your journal writing each day.

BEREAVED MOTHER'S HEART

Creative and transformative ways to journey with trauma and loss

This deeply moving, but ultimately uplifting book follows the psychological and emotional journey of Carla van Laar after the death of her three-year-old son, Vaughn. In the form of a visual and written journal, Carla's exploration of her own grief is saturated with honesty, and a depth of feeling that will generate new understandings of maternal bereavement.

Includes reflective notes that provide practical suggestions for using the book in classrooms, workshops and groups to create soulful conversations and activities about trauma and loss.

Notes for facilitators and teachers are in the back of this beautiful book.

The journey I have documented is one of personal grief, creativity and transformation. The story of transforming loss, however, is relevant not only to bereaved mothers, but to people learning to live with other life-changing losses and trauma. I encourage you, the reader, to engage with the images, text and reflective notes in this book—guided by your own creativity, courage and compassion.

BYRON AND THE CHAIRS

Dealing with sibling jealousy...and other emotional monsters

We all have little monsters that invade our lives. Byron has a little green monster named Jealousy.

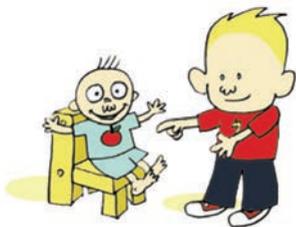

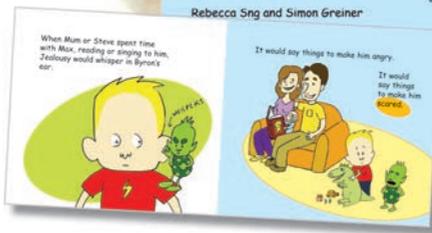

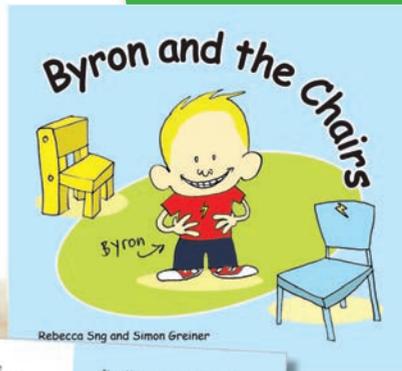

Byron and the Chairs is a delightful story for adults and children to share. Inspired by the techniques of narrative therapy, it invites children to engage directly with the rascally monster of sibling jealousy.

Written by Sydney-based psychologist, Rebecca Sng, the book is an ideal resource for teaching children how to manage their emotions without feeling disabled by shame or blame.

By encouraging children to externalise the emotions that trouble them, Byron and the Chairs provides a gateway to imagining and creating change.

The book is accompanied by reflective notes designed for use by parents, teachers and counsellors.

The notes include suggestions for strengths-based activities with younger children aimed at helping them explore their own experience of little monsters like Jealousy.

CAPTAIN GRUMPY

Follow your heart and find the real treasure

Captain Grumpy didn't want to be a pirate. He wanted to be an artist. But a pirate he became—and he was good at it because he was good at being grumpy. But grumpiness soon became the boss of Captain Grumpy. The result? Well, join the crew and find out, me hearties! In this picture book you will find all sorts of peace-loving pirates and important messages for children about how to manage anger and follow your heart. Use this delightful book to explore what happens when trouble pushes us around and how we can keep trouble at bay with real treasures—the inner ones!

- Look at Captain Grumpy's treasure chest on the last page. What would be found in your treasure chest? Find something that represents each of your treasures.
- Does grumpiness ever push you around? What can you do to put grumpiness back in its place? Write a dialogue you can have with your feelings of grumpiness or anger.
- If you were going to decorate the mainsail on Captain Grumpy's ship, what would it look like? Paint a picture.

CARING...AND OTHER HIGHWIRE ACTS

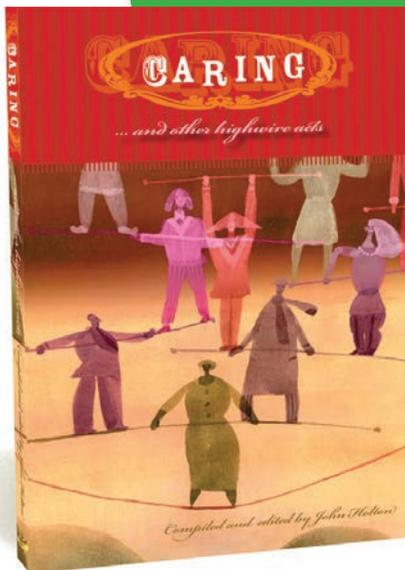

Caring...and Other Highwire Acts gives carers in the Loddon Mallee region of Victoria, Australia, a voice; a chance to tell their stories honestly and anonymously. While the stories in this book are drawn from one region, they are also the stories of many families from many places.

There are stories of heartache, stories of grief and loss, and stories of great courage. Walking the tightrope of mental illness can be all these things and more. But amid the pain there can be moments of hope, even exhilaration and humour, when the fear of falling is cast aside and love makes anything seem possible.

'What have I learnt from our experience of mental illness? That you don't always get a choice about what life dishes out to you, but you certainly get a choice about how you will deal with it.'

'I was sure there had to be solutions; solutions that focussed on wellness and health, rather than illness and pathology.'

COMMUNITIES OF HOPE

A STRENGTHS-BASED RESOURCE FOR BUILDING COMMUNITY

Communities of Hope is about a community's capacity to learn, to change, to grow and to build that most invaluable of commodities—respectful connectedness. This is a truly generous book giving a step-by-step blue-print for a 'strengths-based' approach to community capacity building, as developed by St Luke's Anglicare (Bendigo, Australia).

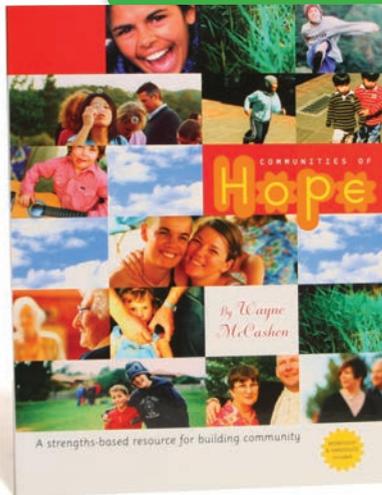

This book contains clearly articulated and truly inspiring principles, and includes a guide for a three-day workshop for community leaders focusing on the building of community by the community. It emphasises self-determination, 'power-with' and people's right to deep respect. Planning, competency and decision making are owned by the community. Additional expertise, information, knowledge and other resources can be accessed by the community to complement its vision, its strengths and resources.

While this book was originally commissioned for church communities by Anglicare Australia, it can be used as a powerful resource in any community, regardless of religious belief. Ideal for higher education courses and organisations involved in community capacity building.

CREATIVE YOGA FOR TEENAGERS

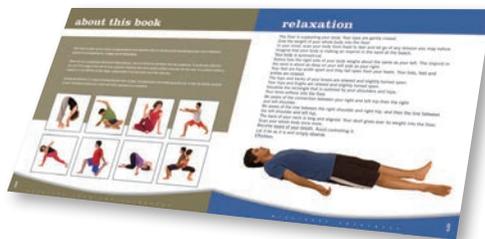

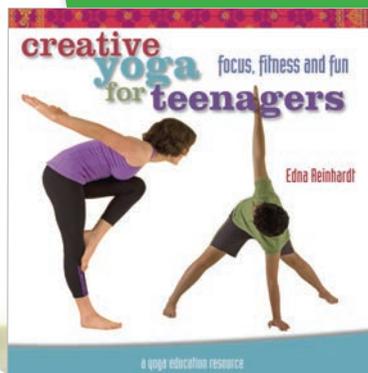

At the heart of this book are a series of creative yoga sequences designed for teens by yoga and dance education specialist, Edna Reinhardt.

We have a lifelong relationship with our body so it pays to treat it well and listen to it with respect. We also have a life-long relationship with our mind. One of the greatest challenges we each have is to learn to be more skilful in managing our thoughts. Because there is an intimate connection between our mind and our body, yoga teaches us about managing the flow of our thoughts as we engage in the flow of the postures.

And...it is fun! The fun part is about feeling healthy, vital and at ease with our body. It is about the sheer enjoyment of the body and its movement.

Edna Reinhardt established her first school of yoga and dance in New South Wales in 1980 and in 1990 opened Over the Moon Dance studio in Castlemaine, Victoria. Edna continues to share her skills and experience with students and educators around Australia as an artist in residence in primary, secondary and early childhood settings. She regularly presents in Department of Education professional development workshops and has worked as a teacher of early childhood movement and music in tertiary institutions where she introduces the use of yoga in early childhood and adolescent education.

DOING CHANGE

CONVERSATIONS FOR MOVING ON

The changes we are looking for in our lives rarely happen 'out of the blue'. We ourselves have to 'do' the change we seek. With a few surprisingly simple strategies, we can each be proactive change-agents for ourselves and for others. Written by Rob McNeilly, a pioneer in the field of solution-oriented therapy, this book is not only for therapists and counsellors, but also for educators, social workers, parents, couples, and anyone interested in bringing about change by doing things differently. It explores the way our emotions, our words and our body influence each other. It includes intriguing, moving, inspiring and sometimes amusing stories and conversations from a master therapist's practice.

Doing Change also includes questions, practical suggestions and activities for:

- relieving stress, anxiety and depression,
- changing patterns and shifting habits,
- regenerating relationships and ...
- getting better sleep.

Established professionals as well as students of the art of change-oriented conversations will find this book brimming with immediately applicable suggestions for 'doing' change and moving on.

KIDS' SKILLS

PLAYFUL AND PRACTICAL SITUATION-FINDING WITH CHILDREN

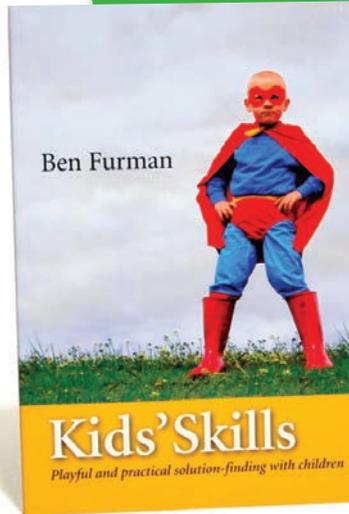

Well-known Finnish psychotherapist and TV presenter, Ben Furman, shares the Kids' Skills model for working with children that is influencing parents, teachers, counsellors and policy-makers around the world. This is a playful and practical approach to solving difficulties faced by children. It is surprising what happens when problems are seen as skills that need to be developed. This 15-step method invites children to become active participants in skill-building and solution-finding. A book buzzing with ideas, stories and suggestions.

- Converting problems into skills
- Agreeing on the skill to learn
- Naming the skill and choosing a power creature
- Gathering supporters and building confidence
- Planning the celebration and going public
- Practising the skill and creating reminders.

'Kids' Skills gives solutions back to kids—and to their parents and teachers and youth leaders. It has nothing to do with 'being positive' but is a simple, 15-step, practical approach that equips anyone to work with children to help them become the experts.'

STORIES OF PLAYFUL AND PRACTICAL SOLUTION-FINDING WITH CHILDREN

Ever wanted to be a 'fly on the wall' in the consulting rooms of a range of skilled therapists, psychologists and social workers from around the world? Following the great success of Kids' Skills (Ben Furman's book outlining his popular 15-step method for working with children) comes this dynamic collection of true stories and conversations between skilled professionals and the children and families with whom they work. At the heart of Furman's method is a simple yet profound reframing of children's problems as skills yet to be learned. The power of his method also rests in his playful approach to working alongside children so that they themselves are their own best teachers, and so that a network of supporters are drawn into the excitement and celebration of the skill as it unfolds within the child's world.

ROSY & JACK

Strategies for working with children who have been sexually assaulted

Few books exist that so frankly, yet sensitively, invite conversations with children about recovering from abuse and staying safe. This picture book was developed in response to the need for creative, honest and original tools for working with children who have been sexually assaulted. It evolved in consultation with a number of sexual assault services and survivors. Essential for anyone who works with children.

'There are many important messages for children who have been sexually assaulted—about how hard it is to tell, about liking the person who offended (but not the touching), about rights, and about sexual assault not being a child's fault—which are reinforced through the story. Through Rosy and Jack children can learn strategies which they may model to deal with the impact of sexual assault. Examples are the use of body signals to tell children when they are feeling unsafe, having a network of trusted adults to whom a child can go to talk, and how to express feelings like anger in a safe way. Counsellors working with child victims of sexual assault can use this resource effectively in their work.'

SEVEN DYING AUSTRALIANS

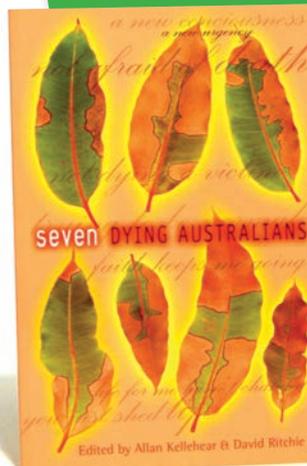

Candid interviews with seven people facing death

This inspiring book captures the unique 'voices' of seven people who are facing death. Paradoxically, their stories of dying are full of life. A 17-year-old girl realises her time has suddenly run out and exhorts us to love. An old man, a refugee, relishes the short life he has left.

In letting these people tell us—in their own words—what the experience is really like, this book serves to strip away misconceptions about death, to bring it back into view as the most natural of processes, and to turn us around to see life anew.

The editors of the book are Allan Kellehear and David Ritchie. Dr Kellehear is a prolific author, university professor and Chairman of the Board of Palliative Care Victoria, Australia. Dr Ritchie is a university lecturer whose work on mortality includes exhibitions in public museums and galleries that promote a deeper understanding of dying, death, grief and remembering.

These stories reveal the inner workings of courage and hope. Here is a great book for anyone who works with those experiencing grief and loss and anyone interested in narrative work.

'These stories are not simply about death and loss but about the preciousness of life, the actual mechanics of meaning-making, and the practical inner workings of personal courage and hope.'

STORM IN A TEACUP

The life cycle in poetry and paintings

A poem is set to paintings to create the dramatically beautiful world of this hardcover picture book. We follow the journey of a tear that falls into a teacup and eventually finds its way out to sea. Finally, it falls as rain and drives a young boy into the arms of his beloved grandfather. Environmental and cyclical themes of life and death, decay and renewal, time and fear, and the gifts of one generation to another are explored in this wonderfully illustrated book. A learners' guide full of suggested activities makes this an inspiring resource for teachers and art therapists.

From the learning guide:

- Invite students to find a story from an older member of the family. Record the story in writing and visually (collage, painting, photographs, etc).
- Write down in your own words what you think the story is really about.
- Share the story with the class and then gift the artwork to the family member, if possible.
- Who are the special people in your world? Write a short letter to someone you care about and tell them how much they mean to you.
- Remember a time when you felt like the little boy running scared. Draw a picture or write a poem about this. Then write a letter to yourself as if you are now 100 years old and very wise.

THE STRENGTHS APPROACH

SHARING POWER. BUILDING HOPE. CREATING CHANGE.

Coming Soon

This comprehensive book describes the distinctive style of human service delivery known as 'strengths-based' practice. Pivotal to this approach is equal partnership and respect between people, or 'power-with'. Also fundamental is the belief that everyone has strengths and that mobilising and sharing strengths is the key to building hope and creating positive change.

Author, Wayne McCashen, has provided training and consultancy services in the strengths approach to hundreds of organisations. In a remarkably clear and synthesised articulation, this book gathers together the principles, beliefs, skills, tools and frameworks that help create effective, socially-just ways of working with people. Since its first publication in 2005, this book has gained an international reputation. It is as an essential text in many university courses and is sourced by government departments, schools, and organisations adopting strengths approach frameworks and policy as best practice.

This revised and expanded second edition contains substantial new material throughout including practice stories, reflective exercises, expanded discussion of strengths, social inclusion, strengths-based questions, supervision, client-owned recording and much more. The new edition will put 'parallel practice' squarely on the strengths agenda, challenging organisations to embed strengths-based, power-with practices at every level of their operations.

A 'must-have' book on strengths-based practice.

An invaluable replacement to the first edition.

Introducing Violet, a wonderful character from the pen of author and illustrator, Fiona Mansfield. Violet knows all sorts of ways to use her voice to let people know how she is thinking and feeling. Violet's voice can sound excited. Violet's voice can sound shy. Violet has an inside voice, an outside voice and a danger voice. Her voice helps keep her safe and helps her make friends. Violet invites children and adults to reflect on the many different voices each person has, and how we use those voices. The simple text and gently humorous illustrations make this miniature picture book an ideal resource for anyone experiencing difficulties with self-expression or confidence.

Miniature picture book to help children learn the skills of speaking and listening

Violet's Voice* is an ideal resource for children experiencing difficulties with self-expression, including issues of anger management, lack of confidence or over excitement. It's also a resource that adults will love for its whimsy and for Violet's sheer strength of personality!

THE WRONG STONE

Celebrating diversity and inclusion—a truly delightful classic

'I want you to build me a wall with only perfect stones,' the big architect said. All the stones tried to put their best faces forward. They hid their ugly bits. But there was one stone that didn't seem to fit. He was the 'Wrong Stone' and all the others were laughing at him. Will it be the crusher for him?

This much-loved picture book features exquisite full-colour illustrations throughout. Enjoy the jokes, drama and most of all, the celebration of difference in this heart-warming story where everyone is valued.

- Use this book in pastoral care and in the classroom, with adults and children.
- Open/close a meeting by reading this book.
- Have you ever felt like a 'wrong stone'? How did you feel? What helps you to feel like a 'right stone' again? How could you help someone else?
- Find the mouse and the lizard in each picture. What might they be saying?
- How many shapes can you see in the wall at the end of the book? Draw your own wall full of shapes.
- Play a game where each person has a different shaped 'paper' stone. Build the wall like a jigsaw puzzle.
- Write a play based on this book and invite your class/school to perform it. Include everyone of course!.

PAPERWORKS

TOOLS FOR THINKING, TALKING, WRITING

Simple, superfast paperwork tools for any situation

Simple really is best! Here is a versatile set of 12 visual metaphors, each with three questions on the back. These versatile paper tools can open doors to conversations and reflection—super fast! Each master features a delightful line illustration that is easily recognised and interpreted by adults, young people and children alike.

The 12 images are: light globe, water tank, brick, bottle, torch, elephant, book, footprint, boot, taxi, sparkling moments and welcome mat.

- What's your message in a bottle?
- What's your next step?
- What great idea do you have?
- Is there an elephant in the room?

Photocopy both sides of these masters as many times as you like and use these practical paper tools in counselling, training, self-care, goal setting, storytelling, classrooms, team building, supervision, creative writing ... anywhere you want to create meaningful conversations.

Clients, students, colleagues, families, and teams can write on their paper sheets, doodle on them, paint and colour them. And because they can take these sheets away with them, these practical paper tools can work as powerful reminders of the session, particularly the client's own thoughts, goals, strengths and feelings. They can post them on noticeboards, pin them to a wall, stick them on the fridge, or place them on their desk.

TACTILE RESOURCES

Many children and adults are more comfortable talking about feelings while handling physical objects. These tactile resources are irresistible; simply place them in front of people and let their moving fingers help them do the talking.

THE BEARS CUBE

Can't get enough of The Bears? It's our best-selling resource for talking about feelings—and counsellors, social workers, teachers and parents know how important feelings are. Here are forty-four of the iconic Bears all on one cube. (Psst: The numbers on the cube correspond with the cards.)

THE BEARS TACTILE CHARACTERS

Fall in love with these five adorable tactile characters from The Bears and use them to explore many more than five emotions. Stand them up, pick them up, and talk about what they—and YOU—are feeling.

REMINDERS FOR BEST PRACTICE POSTERS

POSTERS

At A4 size this set of five compact yet striking posters are perfect for busy office walls, reception areas, noticeboards, meeting rooms, and staff kitchens. The simple, respectful messages will help keep good practice at the forefront of everyone's attention. They help communicate the culture and values of your organisation. Staff can glance up at a poster from their desk, while in a meeting or in the kitchen over morning coffee. When they are about to meet with anyone facing challenges, these posters can provide a timely reminder, a burst of inspiration or a good question to ask.

RECORDING

Reflect on strengths-based, client-owned recordkeeping with these seven questions.

SUPERVISION

Plan sessions around these twelve questions, grab a couple just before you begin, or reach for inspiration mid-session.

PEOPLE NOT CASES, CONTRIBUTORS NOT CLIENTS

This poster asks how practice could be different if we changed the way we see people and the labels we use to describe them.

FEEDBACK

Here are some good questions to keep in mind as you prepare to give or receive feedback in a strengths-based way.

WHAT JUST HAPPENED?

Twelve great questions to help navigate challenging interactions with others.

POSTCARDS— FROM ME TO YOU:

AVAILABLE EARLY 2018

Messages to and from young people—with artwork by young people

In a time when text messages, tweets and other social media postings have largely replaced letters, the postcard endures as soulful, funny, poignant, radical, edgy and highly collectable artifact. This set of 20 postcards will follow the tradition of intriguing and varied design and will provide a communication tool between youth and the adults around them. They can be given to someone, slipped under a door, mailed, pinned up or kept as a memento. With these postcards a person can ask for help, say how they feel, congratulate someone, say sorry, say thank you, speak out about anything, or offer support. Replacement packs of your favourites can be ordered. Make them freely available for young people's use; you never know—one may appear under your door when they can't say it face to face.

OUR TRAINING

Delivering quality practice training and tools workshops for over 25 years!

Are you looking for ways to:

- enhance best practice?
- invigorate your teams?
- build organisational culture?
- bring about better outcomes for clients?

Our training and tools have grown out of a strengths approach to practice. They are also informed by elements of solution-focussed practice, Appreciative Inquiry, Brief Therapy, Choice Theory, Narrative Approaches, Creative Therapies, and Circles approaches to groups and teams. Our workshops honour different learning styles, and the power of metaphors to open up storytelling and other ways to truly connect with adults and children alike.

We specialise in tailoring our highly-interactive training to your needs. Content and format can be adjusted from half-day to two, three or more days as required. Different workshops can be bundled together to create a suite of training for your organisation, delivered at your place or ours. Topics include strengths approach to supervision, client recording, practice reflection, team building and social inclusion. Tools workshops can focus on resources for working with families, children, youth, mental health, journalling and many more.

ONLINE TRAINING ALSO AVAILABLE!
